

Bio Eric Rozenberg

Eric Rozenberg is an acquisition entrepreneur, trusted advisor, speaker, podcaster, and two times Amazon bestselling author.

Eric has helped thousands of entrepreneurs grow and manage their business better. His purpose is to inspire people with integrity and honesty, help them take action, get results, and develop their business and their Life.

For two decades in a previous life, Eric has consulted with Fortune 500 companies and produced award winning sales meetings, incentive trips, product launches and conferences in more than 50 countries across diverse industries. He believes organizations must create meetings and events that are not only breathtakingly memorable but which bring corporate strategies to life and amplify team motivation/performance.

His podcast "The Business of Meetings" is the first podcast in the Meetings & Events Industry dedicated to business owners (<https://spoti.fi/3cA0ya5>). Every Tuesday, listeners learn something new they can apply in their business and/or get inspired by amazing guests.

His first book, Meeting at C-Level, is the first book on the « Why ? » of a meeting. It has been endorsed by 20 of the most influential leaders from the corporate and association worlds (<https://amzn.to/2LMad57>) and helps professionals to position themselves as strategic partner.

His second book, Before It's Too Late, A Love Letter to my Daughters and America, is a story of grid, perseverance, and courage. It describes why and how, he and his wife brought their daughters to America and why it is the greatest country on Earth.

Eric is a current member of the Entrepreneurs Organization (EO – www.eonetwork.org) and The Strategic Forum (www.thestrategicforum.com). He also serves on the Board of Trustees of the Demoucelle Parkinson Foundation in Belgium (<http://www.demoucelle.com/charity/how-we-are/the-board/>) and was the first European to serve as Chairman of the International Board of Meetings Professional International (MPI), the largest professional association in the Meetings and Events Industry

Connect with him at www.linkedin.com/in/ericrozenberg

